Program Overview

Emergency responders (EMS) are on the front line of all disasters and medical emergencies in our state. The federal government has been providing funding to South Carolina to enhance the state’s preparedness level. This two-day conference has been designed to bring emergency responders together for updates on response skills and techniques, to provide networking opportunities, and to provide EMS with opportunities for interaction with other responders from fire, law, hospital, and public health organizations. Participants will take part in a mass casualty exercise that provides training on response skills across agencies and enhances our state’s overall preparedness by improving the skills of all those participating.

Program Highlights

This program will feature two interactive sessions. The first will be the multi-disciplinary panel discussion Working Together: Incident Command and Beyond. This session will bring together senior leaders from Emergency Medical Services, Fire and Rescue, Hospital Emergency Department, Public Health, Law Enforcement, and Emergency Management for a 90-minute discussion on how to better serve our communities in the event of a natural or man-made disaster.

The second interactive program, Mass Casualty Incidents/ Disaster 101, will be lead by the South Carolina AHEC staff and trainers. This session includes a lecture presentation followed up by a hands-on MCI Triage and Decontamination exercise for all participants. This training will also incorporate concepts of the Incident Command System.

Program Registration

The cost for this two-day program is $45. Space is limited, so register online, by fax or via mail by January 16, 2009. Payment accepted by check or credit card.
